OFFICE OF INSPECTOR GENERAL

Annual Plan

October 1, 2011-September 30, 2012

FISCAL YEAR 2012

Highlights of Office of Inspector General (OIG) Plans for Fiscal Year 2012

GOAL 1 Strengthen USDA's ability to implement safety and security measures to protect the public health as well as agricultural and Departmental resources.

- Conduct audits to ensure that USDA food safety and inspection programs effectively meet program objectives.
- Evaluate USDA controls over shell eggs and interagency coordination efforts for detecting and reporting salmonella or other contaminants.
- Investigate smuggling of animals, animal products, plants, and plant products.
- Investigate threats involving the safety of meat, poultry, and egg products to protect the public from food tampering and tainted food.
- Investigate allegations of criminal activity in the National Organic Program.
- Investigate acts of violence against USDA employees.

GOAL 2 Reduce program vulnerabilities and strengthen program integrity in delivering benefits to individuals.

- Conduct audits on nutrition, farm, and rural community programs to determine if entitlements and benefits are effectively directed based on eligibility. This includes audits of American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (Recovery Act) funds.
- Review USDA's mandated reports as required by both Executive Order 13520 and the Improper Payments Elimination and Recovery Act of 2010.
- Investigate allegations of criminal activity in nutrition assistance programs.
- Monitor and investigate allegations of criminal activity pertaining to USDA programs, including Recovery Act and disaster funds.

GOAL 3 Support USDA in implementing its management improvement initiatives.

- Perform mandated FY 2011/2012 financial statement audits of six USDA agencies and the Department as a whole.
- Evaluate the adequacy and security of information technology (IT) systems and applications.
- Carry out oversight responsibilities under the Recovery Act.
- Investigate allegations of significant criminal activity by USDA employees.
- Investigate whistleblower allegations as required by the Recovery Act.

GOAL 4 Increase the efficiency and effectiveness with which USDA manages and exercises stewardship over natural resources.

- Determine whether the Forest Service is properly obtaining and modifying rights-of-way and easements for Federal lands, and is granting and modifying easements according to applicable laws.
- Assess whether producers in the Conservation Security Program and the Conservation Stewardship Program comply with highly erodible land provisions.
- Determine whether eligibility and program requirements were met by those who received Recovery Act funds for reducing hazardous fuels and restoring ecosystems on non-Federal lands.
- Investigate allegations of significant criminal activity in programs involving the management and stewardship of natural resources.

GOAL 5 Strive for a highly qualified, diverse workforce that has the tools and training necessary to enhance OIG's ability to fulfill its mission and communicate its accomplishments.

- Update and publish Inspector General management and policy directives.
- Improve performance of IT's help desk initial response and resolution.
- Continuously monitor the OIG network and issue formal IT security briefing to the OIG Chief Information Officer.
- Improve internal and external response times to security incidents.
- Develop and deliver budget and accounting information and regular reports to the Office of the Chief Financial Officer and the National Finance Center.
- Submit the Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) Counselor's report to the EEO office within 15 days after completing the counseling period.

Message from the Inspector General

I am pleased to present the USDA OIG Annual Plan for fiscal year (FY) 2012. This document describes how OIG will achieve its mission of promoting economy, efficiency, effectiveness, and integrity in the delivery of USDA programs. In setting our goals and objectives, we aligned our annual plan with both the OIG Strategic Plan for FY 2010-2015 and the USDA Strategic Plan for FY 2010-2015. This plan reflects the priority work that OIG believes is necessary to provide effective oversight of the broad spectrum of USDA programs and activities. As the Nation moves forward to address its fiscal situation, OIG anticipates that there will be fewer resources available to carry out our mission in FY 2012. Accordingly, adjustments to this plan may be necessary as the year unfolds to ensure that we direct our resources to areas of highest risk and vulnerability.

The American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 (Recovery Act) continues to influence this year's plan significantly because it gives OIG specific responsibilities for audit and investigative oversight of USDA programs and activities funded through the Act. In FY 2012, we estimate that we will use approximately 15 percent of our audit resources and 5 percent of our investigative resources for Recovery Act oversight.

As mandated by Executive Order (E.O.) 13520 and the Improper Payments Elimination and Recovery Act (IPERA) of 2010, we will determine USDA's compliance with IPERA and review agencies methodologies and plans to reduce improper payments. In addition, as required by the Claims Resolution Act of 2010, we will review Pigford II adjudicated claims to determine whether USDA established and followed proper procedures for distributing settlement funds to eligible claimants.

Also, as mandated by the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 (Farm Bill), we continue to monitor how the Food Safety and Inspection Service (FSIS) implements provisions related to State meat inspection programs. Once relevant regulations are in place, we will initiate an audit to determine if they are being followed.

The Disaster Relief and Recovery Supplemental Appropriations Act of 2008 entrusted USDA with more than $400 million in funding for disaster relief and recovery. Our work this year will include a review of programs intended to rehabilitate land damaged by floods, tornadoes, and wildfires: the Farm Service Agency's (FSA) Emergency Conservation Program (ECP), and the Natural Resources Conservation Service's (NRCS) Emergency Watershed Program (EWP). As disaster relief circumstances warrant, we may undertake additional work to ensure that these funds are used properly.

Based on OIG's continuing commitment to our strategic goals, adapted to respond to key developments and carry out new and ongoing responsibilities, we present this Annual Plan for FY 2012. We look forward to continuing to work productively with Congress and the Secretary to promote the effective delivery of USDA programs.

Fiscal Year 2012 Audits Planned

Introduction

The USDA OIG Strategic Plan for FY 2010-2015 establishes our mission, vision, and goals for 5 years. OIG is committed to providing a positive return on the U.S. taxpayers' investment by planning our work to address issues of the greatest importance and achieve the most significant results.

While OIG continues its work to ensure the overall integrity of payments in USDA programs and the effectiveness of those programs, we have also directed a significant portion of our resources to overseeing USDA's effective implementation of $28 billion in American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 (Recovery Act) funds. As of August 31, 2011 OIG has completed 31 audits and issued 56 fast reports assessing USDA agencies' Recovery Act program guidance, internal controls, eligibility criteria, and compliance activities in a number of areas, including farm loans, watershed programs, supplemental nutrition assistance, wildland fire management, and several rural development programs (such as rural housing, rural business, water and waste disposal, and broadband).

In FY 2012, we expect to complete most planned Recovery Act audit oversight work. We also expect to receive fewer new allegations of Recovery Act fraud in FY 2012, as the Government-wide authority to expend Recovery Act funds expires. We will, however, continue to evaluate and investigate potential criminal violations involving USDA Recovery Act programs, as we do for all other USDA-funded activities.

This Annual Plan presents the FY 2012 work that USDA OIG intends to undertake in support of our current Strategic Plan and in accordance with our Recovery Act responsibilities.

Resources and Organization

We assessed the work for this Annual Plan relative to the resources that we believe will be available to accomplish it. FY 2012 funding level is not yet certain, and the annual plan may need to be adjusted during the year to reflect any resource constraints. Appendix B describes our current organizational structure and functional responsibilities; these also could change during the year if resource levels should change.

FY 2012 Work Plan

A summary of the work we plan in support of our FY 2012 strategic goals follows.

Goal 1 – Strengthen USDA's ability to implement safety and security measures to protect the public health as well as agricultural and Departmental resources.

We expect to use approximately 17.5 percent of our audit and 12 percent of our investigative resources in achieving this goal.¹ Our investigations work focuses on threats to the food supply, the agricultural sector, USDA employees, and national security. Our audit work focuses on assessing management control systems designed to ensure that the Department is effectively protecting the consumer and the Nation's agricultural resources. Our audit work will also concentrate on homeland security and will continue to evaluate the Department's coordination and communication of increased security controls both internally and across Federal Departments. For FY 2012, our priorities include the following:

- Evaluate USDA's controls over shell eggs for detecting and reporting salmonella or other contaminants. Assess interagency coordination efforts to ensure the safety and wholesomeness of shell eggs.
- Address the effectiveness of FSIS' N-60 testing protocol on beef trim for Escherichia coli O157:H7 (E. coli). Determine whether industry and private laboratories' sampling and testing protocols meet FSIS standards and examine how FSIS and the beef industry use test results.
- Follow up on prior audits of FSIS food safety initiatives to determine if the agency has made improvements in: staffing, training, and supervising in-plant inspectors; oversight of the Humane Methods of Slaughter Act; removing specified-risk materials; and information system management controls.

¹All OIG teams contribute to each goal, but we can currently only quantify and project the audit and investigation resources employed.

- Investigate threats involving the safety of meat, poultry, and egg products to ensure that timely response and appropriate corrective actions are taken to protect the public from food tampering or tainted food.
- Follow up on prior audits of select agents and toxins to determine if the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) is ensuring compliance with regulations pertaining to the Public Health Security and Bioterrorism Preparedness and Response Act of 2002.
- Investigate animal, animal product, plant, and plant product smuggling that can introduce devastating diseases and pests into American agriculture.
- Investigate allegations of criminal activity in the National Organic Program (NOP).
- Follow up on prior audits to determine if the Agricultural Research Service (ARS) has designed and implemented controls to ensure security of sensitive technology and information transfers.
- Coordinate with the Federal Bureau of Investigation's Joint Terrorism Task Forces to support ongoing investigations working to identify and combat domestic and international terrorism.

Specific Recovery Act work we are conducting includes the following:

- Investigate whistleblower complaints that involve Recovery Act funds and alleged health, safety, or security threats.
- Determine whether sponsors of projects to rehabilitate flood control dams are following Recovery Act requirements for issuing contracts, monitoring projects, and reporting their use of funds to the Recovery Board.

Goal 2 – Reduce program vulnerabilities and strengthen program integrity in the delivery of benefits to individuals.

We expect to use approximately 20.3 percent of our audit and 76 percent of our investigative resources to accomplish this goal. Our investigative focus includes threats to the integrity and effectiveness of USDA's benefits programs. Our audit focus includes assessing internal control systems and identifying risk indicators that should increase both OIG's and USDA's ability to detect and prevent program abuse and criminal activity. For FY 2012, our priorities include the following:

- Investigate allegations of criminal activity in USDA's disaster relief and assistance programs (e.g., crop insurance, indemnity payments, and grants and loans).
- Determine the effectiveness of FSA's and NRCS' administration of ECP and EWP, which are intended to rehabilitate land damaged by floods, tornadoes, and wildfires.
- Investigate allegations of criminal activity in farm programs, including the crop insurance and farm loan programs.
- Evaluate the Biomass Crop Assistance Program—established by the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008—to review eligibility and selection criteria and contract compliance.
- Match the Social Security Administration's list of deceased individuals' social security numbers and names to eligibility data in the Food and Nutrition Service's (FNS) Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) to determine whether benefits are delivered appropriately.²
- Evaluate vendor monitoring under the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) to assess implementation of new regulations and corrective actions regarding improper payments.
- In response to a congressional request, determine whether school districts that signed cost-reimbursable contracts with Food Service Management Companies (FSMC) under the National School Lunch Program (NSLP) receive all appropriate discounts and rebates from their FSMC. Follow up on recommendations identified in prior audit reports.
- As mandated by E.O. 13520 and IPERA, determine USDA's compliance with IPERA, and review agencies' methodologies and plans to reduce improper payments. Assess risks in high-priority programs, determine the extent of oversight warranted, and provide recommendations, where appropriate.
- Investigate alleged criminal activity in food and nutrition programs, including SNAP and its Electronic Benefits Transfer (EBT) delivery system, WIC, and NSLP.

²SNAP was formerly known as the Food Stamp Program.

Specific Recovery Act work we are conducting includes the following:

- Identify and investigate potentially fraudulent activity occurring within USDA agencies and programs receiving Recovery Act funding.
- Review Recovery Act-funded Supplemental Agricultural Disaster Assistance programs to determine if adequate controls were developed and implemented.
- Determine if Rural Development's agencies have effectively implemented Recovery Act provisions. Audit initiatives include reviewing the Rural Business Enterprise Grants Program; the Business and Industry Guaranteed Loan Program; the Single-Family Housing (SFH) Guaranteed Loan Program; SFH Direct Loans Program; and Rural Community Facilities Direct Loans and Grants Program.
- Determine if Trade Adjustment Assistance for Farmers Program funds under the Recovery Act are used for authorized purposes and results are accurately reported.

Goal 3 – Support USDA in implementing its management improvement initiatives.

We expect to use approximately 56.8 percent of our audit and 10 percent of our investigative resources to accomplish this goal. Our audit focus is on improved financial management and accountability, IT security and management, real property management and procurement, renewable energy programs, research, and compliance with the Government Performance and Results Act. Our investigative focus includes allegations involving criminal violations that have employee corruption or fraud implications. For FY 2012, our mandated and priority work include the following:

- Investigate allegations of employee corruption and fraud.
- Determine if the Department has provided adequate training to its employees to detect and prevent social engineering tactics used to acquire sensitive information.³
- Audit the FY 2011/2012 USDA consolidated financial statements and the financial statements of six stand-alone agencies and entities, i.e., FNS, NRCS, Forest Service (FS), Rural Development, the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, and the Commodity Credit Corporation.

³Social engineering involves using manipulation to compel people into divulging sensitive information.

⁴Departmental Management includes administrative offices within USDA such as the Office of the Chief Financial Officer and the Office of Human Resources Management.

- Determine if NRCS' oversight and compliance activities are adequate to ensure compliance with laws and regulations and achieve program results effectively and efficiently.
- Review Pigford II adjudicated claims to determine whether USDA established and followed proper procedures for distributing settlement funds to eligible claimants (as required by the Claims Resolution Act of 2010).
- Complete work to assess USDA's process for settling with civil rights program complainants, and follow up on prior audit recommendations relating to USDA's civil rights programs.

Specific Recovery Act work we are conducting includes the following:

- Investigate whistleblower complaints related to Recovery Act funding, and track them through an automated system to ensure timeliness.
- Determine if Departmental Management and the Agricultural Research Service properly closed out Recovery Act-funded contracts.⁴
- Review FS' plans to spend additional Recovery Act funds on wildland fire management.

Goal 4 – Increase the efficiency and effectiveness with which USDA manages and exercises stewardship over natural resources.

We expect to use approximately 5.4 percent of our audit resources and 2 percent of our investigative resources for Goal 4. Our audit and investigative focus is on USDA's management and stewardship of natural resources, such as soil, water, and recreation sites. For FY 2012, our priorities include:

- Investigate allegations of significant criminal activities in programs related to natural resource management and stewardship.
- Evaluate FS' management of oil and gas resources on National Forest System land, focusing on assessing potential weaknesses we identified in a survey of the agency's implementation of the National Energy Policy.
- Assess whether producers in the Conservation Security Program and Conservation Stewardship Program comply with highly erodible land provisions. Evaluate NRCS' non-compliance determinations and variance approvals.

- Evaluate NRCS controls over the Farm and Ranch Lands Protection Program to ensure that land easements are properly appraised, and that the land is used for agriculture.
- Examine whether Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) recipients fulfilled their contracts, and whether controls ensure that contracts continue to meet program objectives. Determine if EQIP contracts duplicate other payments or services offered by USDA.

Specific Recovery Act work we are conducting includes the following:

- Determine whether FS' Recovery Act biomass projects met requirements and were completed timely and effectively.⁵ Evaluate whether FS can adequately support its reported achievements in capital improvements and maintenance.
- Determine whether recipients of funds for reducing hazardous fuels and restoring ecosystems on non-Federal lands met eligibility and program requirements, and timely and effectively completed their projects.
- Assess FS controls over capital improvement and maintenance funding to ensure that participants meet requirements and the funding meets objectives. Examine activities such as renovating buildings, remediating abandoned mines, and maintaining trails.

Goal 5 – Strive for a highly qualified, diverse workforce with the tools and training necessary to continuously enhance OIG's ability to fulfill its mission and communicate its accomplishments.

For FY 2012, we will continue to use our 19 performance measures for this goal. Our management focus is on ensuring the readiness of the OIG workforce, timely reporting of information to stakeholders, and satisfying employees' needs. Our FY 2012 work will include the following:

- Continue soliciting feedback through the New Employee Survey within 6 weeks of a person joining the organization.
- Issue candidate certificates within 5 days of announcement closing date.
- Improve initial response and completion time for IT help desk requests.
- Deliver timely and informative semiannual reports to Congress, annual plans, and other OIG publications to stakeholders.
- Report monthly to the Recovery Board on the use of Recovery Act funds.
- Issue timely and effective IG subpoenas.
- Submit budget and accounting information, as well as regular reports, to the Office of the Chief Financial Officer and the National Finance Center.
- Issue OIG's formal IT security briefing to the OIG Chief Information Officer at least three times per quarter.
- Improve internal and external response times to security incidents.
- Submit Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) Counselor's reports to the EEO office within 15 calendar days after completing the counseling period.

⁵Biomass is a renewable energy resource that derives from living and dead organisms, such as wood, waste, and alcohol fuels.

FY 2011 Performance Summary and Results

Our Strategic Plan identifies the results of our work using a life-cycle approach to our outputs that tracks individual actions at critical milestones. We began measuring these results in FY 2004. Since then, we have steadily increased the number of performance measures we track to 30 in total. In FY 2011, OIG met 25 of the 30 performance targets. This provides an opportunity for OIG to improve its work processes in FY 2012. OIG will be keeping 26 of the 30 performance measures and adding four new measures keeping the total to 30 for FY 2012. The following tables illustrate our FY 2011 results in comparison with our performance targets.

OIG Strategic and Performance Goals and FY 2011 Results

Strategic Goal	Performance Goals
(1) Safety and Security	Strengthen USDA's ability to implement safety and security measures to protect the public health as well as agricultural and Departmental resources.
(2) Integrity of Benefits	Reduce program vulnerabilities and strengthen program integrity in the delivery of benefits to individuals.
(3) Management Improvement Initiatives	Support USDA in implementing its management improvement initiatives.
(4) Natural Resources	Increase the efficiency and effectiveness with which USDA manages and exercises stewardship over natural resources.
(5) Qualified Diverse Workforce	Strive for a highly qualified, diverse workforce with the tools and training necessary to continuously enhance OIG's ability to fulfill its mission and communicate its accomplishments.

(4) Investigations staff will participate in 10 Outreach/Training meetings each quarter on Recovery Act work.	80%	95%
(5) Whistleblower retaliation allegations are investigated and reported within 180 days of receipt.	75%	N/A
(6) Timely and accurate monthly Recovery Act funds reports submitted to the Recovery Accountability and Transparency Board.	88%	100%

Note: *New Performance Measure

Conclusion

Throughout FY 2012, we will measure our progress in achieving the performance objectives of this plan through periodic reporting. Adjustments may be made to reflect shifting priorities, increased or reduced resources, or other circumstances that may arise.

In developing this annual plan, we made every effort to realistically assess our planned work's strategic alignment and importance, anticipated outcomes, and resource requirements. We believe it represents a balanced and achievable set of performance objectives for FY 2012.

We will report on our results through our semiannual reports to Congress.

Organization Chart and Functional Responsibilities

October 2011

Note 1: *AIG – Assistant Inspector General

Note 2: DAIG – Deputy Assistant Inspector General

Areas of Responsibility:

Audit

The Office of Audit examines the economy and efficiency of USDA programs and operations, including program results, compliance with applicable laws and regulations, and fair presentation of financial reports. Audit also performs data analyses to assist audit teams in identifying early indicators of potential fraud, or the need for additional program controls. While the majority of work is performed by OIG staff, Audit contracts with certified public accountants for some work and oversees the quality of work done by auditors under contract to other USDA agencies. OIG audits are performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards, published by the U.S. Government Accountability Office, and in accordance with the professional standards set by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

Investigations

The Office of Investigations utilizes specific law enforcement authorities, tools, and techniques, including asset forfeiture, to conduct investigations and prevent fraud, waste, and abuse in the programs and operations of USDA.⁶ Investigative work is intended to result in appropriate actions to resolve allegations and to prevent future instances of illegal or fraudulent acts or misconduct.

Counsel

The Office of Counsel (OC) provides legal advice and representation on issues arising during the course of audit, investigative, and inspection activities, or administrative and management issues facing OIG. OC also manages OIG's congressional and media relations, ethics, Freedom of Information Act and Privacy Act programs. Additionally, OC coordinates reviews of existing and proposed legislation and regulations in order to make recommendations concerning the impact of such proposals on the economy and efficiency in the administration of USDA's programs and operations, as well as for the prevention and detection of fraud and abuse in such programs and operations.⁷

Management

The Office of Management (OM) ensures that OIG staff, budgetary funds, technology, equipment, and policies are in place so that we can function efficiently and effectively. OM's responsibilities include asset management, budget formulation and execution, human resources, cross-OIG workplace training, information technology, and policy preparation for OIG. OM also facilitates OIG's planning activities and prepares cross-cutting documents on OIG accomplishments.

Compliance and Integrity

The Office of Compliance and Integrity conducts systematic and independent reviews and investigations of operations within OIG. Reviews are generally focused on management and internal controls, and investigations are generally in response to allegations of OIG employee misconduct or mismanagement.

Diversity and Conflict Resolution

The Office of Diversity and Conflict Resolution advises OIG leadership on applying the principles of civil rights, equal employment opportunity, dispute resolution, and affirmative employment to matters involving our workforce, program activities, and policy development. As needed, this office also guides employees who seek to use the Federal employment discrimination complaints and dispute resolution processes.

Special Assistant to the IG for Recovery Act

The Special Assistant to the IG provides overall guidance and direction to all Recovery Act audit and investigative activities, as well as duties and functions relating to the Recovery Board. The Special Assistant directs and reviews the development of Recovery Act-related goals and priorities, operation plans, performance measures, and reports for each OIG component, including audit, investigation, and management functions.

⁶As a component member of the U.S. Department of Justice's (DOJ) Asset Forfeiture Program, OIG supports DOJ's National Asset Forfeiture Strategic Plan by making tracing and recovery of assets an integral part of every applicable criminal investigation. Asset forfeiture can be a vital tool to deprive criminals of the fruits and instrumentalities of their crimes, thereby deterring criminal activities.

⁷Such reviews are mandated under the Inspector General Act of 1978 [5 U.S.C. app. 3, § 4(a)(2)].
